The Misses Faulkner are building a cottage on Railroad Avenue, not far from the depot.

If you want to know who keeps the freshest candies we can tell you. Why Pobs does.

April showers began promptly on time, though there was no thunder or lightning until the 3rd.

Mrs. R. B. Gillespie, in answer to message, arrived home from Montgomery on Tuesday afternoon.

Mr. Chapman H. Peery, the succeeding postmaster at Cedar Bluff, was in the city at full length Tuesday. His was a fine selection.

Saturday and Sunday last were prolific of fires over the country, the most disastrous in Virginia being the almost utter destruction of Clarksville.

Don't forget when you want a pair of spectacles or eyeglasses you can get them from the jeweler, Pobs, and he always takes pains to fit you in glasses.

WHO SAYS RHEUMATISM CAN NOT BE CURED?

My wife was confined to her bed for over two months with a very severe attack of rheumatism. We could get nothing that would afford her any relief, and as a last resort gave Chamberlain's Pain Balm a trial. To our great surprise she began to improve after the first application, and by using it regularly she was soon able to get up and attend to her household. E. H. Johnson, of C. J. The representatives of the California Kitchen Cabinet Company are operating in the vicinity of Roanoke. As elsewhere they are taking orders with the usual regularity. Their plan being to cover as much territory as possible in a given length of time, they found it more expedient to postpone a complete canvass of Tazewell until beginning to deliver the goods already sold.

Among the thousands of conveniences invented, those of the greatest benefit to the masses are the simplest things. Frequently the ingenious combining together into one convenient whole of implements of every day use, makes a more valuable one thing than an altogether new article.

In any kitchen may be found the coffee mill, the egg beater, the spring scales, the nutmeg grater, the kneading board, the flour and meal bin, sifters, drawers, boxes, cabinets or other receptacles for the various food ingredients, but it is only in the one form that is found the grouping of all these in one small article of furniture—the CALIFORNIA KITCHEN CABINET.

The fact that it contains the old fashioned coffee mill, egg beater, sifter, spring balances, &c., is altogether to its credit. None of its attachments are new fangled. They are observed to be old acquaintances. Should anything happen to one of them a duplicate is in the nearest store.

It is in the fixed arrangement of these things that is found the extra utility and the provision for labor saving and waste preventing. Even after the economy of handling provisions has saved the price of this Cabinet, it remains to save on and to lighten work.

Occupying but a few inches of space, it can be placed close up in a corner of the room and in this way almost lessen the work of arranging the kitchen daily. It is the one object of kitchen furniture that the housekeeper wants as soon as she sees it and nothing short of poverty should prevent her having it, because aside from convenience, it is a good investment bearing interest.

The California Kitchen Cabinet is an invention about two years old only, and yet in that time thousands have been manufactured and sold, and that too only through the company's solicitors and in limited territory. In other words it is sold as rapidly as it can be handled thus.

BROWN'S IRON BITTERS

Cures Indigestion, Biliousness, Dyspepsia, Phlegm, Nervousness, and General Debility. Physicians recommend it. All dealers sell it. Genuine bottles are marked with red lines on wrapper.

Geo. W. St. Clair, Esq., paid a visit of a few days duration to his former home, Wytheville.

Gardening now holds precedence over other engagements while spring cleaning is yet in abeyance.

Mr. Isaac E. Chapman, who has been quite ill for some time, threatened with pneumonia is improved.

Judge S. W. Williams arrived from across country in time to open court a little late in the day Monday.

The town will do some repairing on its portion of Railroad Avenue and thus make a lick in time save nine.

The name of the Tazewell Republican is changed to the "Blue Grass Blade" as more appropriate to the locality.

The White House mail since the 4th of March has averaged 800 letters a day, with newspapers innumerable.

A fire at Mill Creek, near Bramwell, on Saturday last destroyed some five or six houses with all their contents.

Mrs. Marrs, widow of the late A. H. Marrs, will have erected at the farm a neat cottage on the site of the house destroyed by fire.

The days are drawing swiftly nigh. When you may doff your derby To wear the chapeau made of straw, And look quite rus in urbe!

—Constitution.

Mr. J. B. Boyer and wife, from a month's visit in Baltimore and other cities, returned to Tazewell, Tuesday, and have rooms at Mr. I. E. Chapman's.

Rev. J. A. Leslie will build this season, on his property on Tazewell Avenue, a residence for his own occupancy. The lots take in the Goff house which will be torn away.

In conversation with Representative Swanson, Mr. Cleveland stated that he was not unmindful of the claims of Virginia, and would in due season see that a fair share of the patronage went that way.

The April term of the Circuit Court began Monday. The docket is quite a large one, but Judge Williams is very expeditious in the dispatch of business and will doubtless get through on time. Several members of the bar are unwell.

The wind of Monday night must have been quite severe. Along the river near town a number of trees were blown down and the tin roofs lifted from the residence of Stewart Thompson and the Tazewell Flouring Mill at W. W. and M. L. Peery.

Mr. Emile Low, formerly residing here during the time of the construction of the Clinch Valley railroad, is an applicant for the Paso Del Norte consularship. He has heretofore spent some time in Mexico where he was professionally engaged.

It develops that a man coming to town for a physician passed in front of the Seminary when it was ablaze in the rear. It did not occur to him that it was anything more than a light from the windows until he had been in town some time and heard the alarm.

In a local option election for the Gladeville district in Wise county, the result was about four to one in favor of the dry ticket. The district includes the towns of Norton and Tacoma and will afford an inviting field for the ubiquitous moonshiner. The locality is close to the Kentucky mountains.

The Southwest Virginia Convention, composed of some twenty Episcopal ministers, will meet at Roanoke on the 11th inst. Rev. W. K. Savage, of Tazewell, will preach the convocation sermon. The topic to be discussed is "The Temptations of Ministerial Life." Rev. C. B. Milner is the essayist, and Revs. Savage and Shend the speakers assigned to discuss it.—Ex.

The Knights Templar Commandery of this town celebrated Easter Sunday by going to the Methodist church in full uniform. Their turn out and movements in the church were a glittering success. The singing of the anthem and chant by the local choir was of the highest order and would have done credit to a professional opera company. The sermon was an intellectual one delivered in a very impressive manner, and this town is proud of its commandery, its choir and the minister. Long may they live to celebrate many Easter Sundays.

TENNESSEE WINS.

The Supreme Court of the United States, in an opinion delivered by Justice Field, declined to grant the prayer of Virginia regarding the State line between it and Tennessee. The old line, as of 1803, is thus re-established.

BILIOUS COLIC PREVENTED.

Persons who are subject to attacks of colic can almost invariably tell, by their feelings, when to expect an attack. If Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy is taken as soon as these symptoms appear, they can ward off the disease. Such persons should always keep the Remedy at hand, ready for immediate use when needed. Two or three doses of it at the right time will save them much suffering. For sale by A. F. Hargrave, druggist.

THE FIRE.

TAZEWELL FEMALE SEMINARY IN ASHES.

On Sunday morning last, just before three o'clock, the people in town were rudely awakened by the distressing cry of fire, followed by the harsh clanging of bells. The alarm had been given by some one far down on Tazewell Avenue, but was heard by a gentleman on Main street, whose cries awoke others. Few could locate the fire from their windows further than its direction from the glare upon the sides of tall buildings, and so the suspense was prolonged until after a hasty dressing.

A fourth of a mile or more from the populous part of the town could be seen the giant flames licking up the rear portion of the buildings of the Tazewell Female Seminary and at that distance mockingly defiant of any contemplated human resistance. Hearts dropped like lead at the certain prospect of the destruction of the pride of the community.

Possible danger to life lent impulse to speed and the first arrivals found it possible to save some effects from the roaring cauldron, the workers retreating from room to room only as driven by the blistering flames. The wind was somewhat toward the rear where the fire began, which alone made it possible to save any effects.

To this fact, too, it is almost certain that the escape of all the inmates was due, for the fire had made great headway, and had even burst into occupied rooms before discovery. From the second floor were secured a few articles of wearing apparel and a number of trunks. From the first floor some furniture and four pianos were taken. The dining room was being emptied when a violent explosion threw it in darkness and caused a hasty retreat. It was afterward discovered that the shock was caused by the bursting of a large boiler attached to the range in the kitchen. When the main building could be no longer approached the desks and other furniture were carried from the chapel and study hall, some ten feet away.

As the fire seized this building another danger threatened. To the east, though farther back from the street, the fine residence of Mr. W. G. Harrison was in the way of the wind. A portion of the roof was shingled and to this were carried blankets and buckets of water, for the service pipe was found to be empty, the water escaping in the ruins of the Seminary.

This danger passed and the half clad pupils and the lady teachers of the Seminary under the roofs of neighboring citizens, the work of removing the furniture was begun and by daylight it was all stored in the High School building up town. And when later the girls looked through the lot they found them selves poor indeed. Embarrassing as were their immediate wants every hour brought reminders of the loss of valued possessions that could never be replaced. When in a few hours the bells rang again, but in a different tone from that of the early morning, they were at their places in church, not in Easter adornment, but many of them, in borrowed attire. In addition to the destruction of the personal belongings of Dr. and Mrs. Gillespie and members of the Faculty Prof. and Mrs. Shellenbarger, Misses Bopp, Marian, Cora and Nannie Higginbotham and Mrs. Pythress, the following young ladies lost nearly everything in their rooms: Misses Nannie Wagoner and May Josses, of Russell; Annie Wingo, of Springfield; Maggie Pratt and Nannie Witten, of Missouri; Willie Simmerman, of Princeton; Lulu Stafford, of Roanoke; Jennie and Ima Cutler, of Richmond; Mary Beale, of Bedford City; Alice Spindle, of Christiansburg; Annie Watkins and Marie Brown, of Bluefield; Amelia Bowman, of Matthews C. H.; and Mary Vinson, of Huntington. Miss Rose, of New York, who was with her niece, Miss Coe, lost nearly everything she had.

Of those in the building Dr. Gillespie was the first to discover the fire, as the room of himself and wife was immediately over the kitchen where it originated, if not in a store room adjoining or under a porch. In fact upon looking through the window the fire was over so much space that its beginning could not be located. At the basement the fire was inside and outside the walls, and up on reaching the rooms of the sleepers on the second floor it was roaring in the garret and breaking into several rooms. It was its rapid advance along the halls above that prevented the saving of things on that floor. When Dr. Gillespie reached again his room it was too late to get any thing and in there were the account books and all business papers. Mrs. Gillespie herself, the principal of the school, was away at her old home in Montgomery, where she goes every spring to recuperate after the greater term of the session and before preparation for the closing exercises. In formation was wired her at once though there was reluctance to distress her in feeble health.

As is generally the case with early morning fires its cause or origin can never be known. There was no evidence of anything of the kind about the kitchen at 11 o'clock last night.

In less than an hour from the first alarm not a timber of the large buildings was left standing. The destruction of them was utter and complete. They were constructed entirely of wood and a stiff breeze acted as a mighty blower.

The location was beyond the reach of hose from the nearest fire plug, but the result would have been the same if it had not been. The fire was too far advanced to have been affected by a single stream of water.

It was the largest fire the town ever experienced both in point of buildings destroyed and property lost.

The insurance on buildings, outbuildings and furniture was $10,100, which was about the limit. Of this $1,000 was in the Virginia Fire and Marine, $2,600 in the Agricultural of New York and $3,500 in the Hamburg-Bremen.

Before the fire was over, the Principal of the High School, whose session would have closed in two weeks, offered to vacate the building for the use of the Seminary. The offer was gladly accepted, but regular work did not begin on Monday morning because of lack of books, music, &c., and the absence of the Principal. On Tuesday classes were getting to work again and at this time matters are in as good shape as conditions make possible.

Whether Mrs. Gillespie will feel equal to the undertaking of beginning all over again and erecting new buildings, we do not know. She labored under great odds in the initiation and completion of the enterprise before and her experience may cause her to hesitate. There was already a movement on foot which would have led to an offer for the property for school purposes, and when the conception takes business form another female school will be established here, so that the loss, so far as the public is concerned, will be temporary.

EASTER SUNDAY.

"Christ is risen! He is indeed."

Easter morn was ushered in with bright sunshine which bathed the earth all day, just as the rays of light and love have brightened and warmed the spiritual of the world since that glorious morn centuries ago when the bonds of the tomb were burst and the Saviour rose, victor over death. Never had the day been more looked forward to and never was the occasion more elaborately celebrated in our churches. Letting and verdure beautified the houses of worship and the fragrance of flowers joined with the breath of song to please the senses.

The services at the churches were held as announced.

In the Methodist church, Rev. B. W. S. Bishop, pastor, the Knights Templar, Clinch Valley Commandery, in full regalia, occupied the space in front of the altar, where they performed their ritual of worship. The sermon, embodying Templar history, was directed chiefly towards the knights, but reached the congregation in its bearing upon the resurrection. The red cross was but the symbol or shadow of that supposed to be mounted upon the heart and character of each Mason.

In the Episcopal church, Rev. W. R. Savage, rector, the day was more fully celebrated than elsewhere. It was a day of sermon, song and praise, entered into with a spirit that produced a lively reminder of the anniversary of that day when the buds were bursting in the Garden.

Rev. W. A. Simmons preached at night a sermon appropriate to the occasion in the Baptist church, the subject being "The Resurrection of Man."

There was also service at night at the Christian church, where meetings of several week's duration had just been discontinued.

CITY ELECTION.

At an election, Monday, of officers for the town government for the ensuing year, the following resulted:

Mayor, James W. Spotts.

Recorder, T. A. Lynch.

Sergeant, G. L. McIntock.

Councilmen, Isaac Peirce, J. Y. Crawford, J. T. Barnes, W. T. Gillespie, J. G. Bustin.

At a late hour O. G. Emchwiller was announced a candidate for mayor. 105 votes were cast.

ANOTHER LYNCHING.

Judge Lynch, of the Clinch Valley circuit, held a special session of his court at Graham, in this county, Sunday night. Charles Morgan, a negro tough from the coal "diggings," at temporary quarters of the notorious shooting in which John Leece, a colored boy of Graham was killed. This was on Friday night and Morgan was jailed by a colored policeman and others. On Sunday night a mob of his own race took him from jail to a limb outside the town, hung him to a limb and filled his carcass with bullets.

THE MATTER OF A SEWER.

It is proposed, and the proposition is under advisement, to put in a sewer along the north side of the town from a point opposite the east end of Main street to the town branch west of town. Main street, the only completely built one, runs practically along the crest of a ridge its entire length from east to west. On the south of and parallel with this street runs a fairly rapid stream into which unobstructed and clearly premises on that side of the street are to a considerable extent naturally drained. On the north side, however, there is no outlet. In fact there is a series of depressions with elevations on all side, a basin. If the topography proves to be such as to admit of a continuous down grade for a sewer that would be at the same time accessible from all the property on that side, and all the premises would make connection, then it would be a public improvement of the greatest importance to the entire community as a health preserver. Faulty in any degree, however, the town would be better without it. It is well known to sanitary engineers and everybody of observation that an imperfect sewer, without exception, the very greatest disease breeder. Unwholesome and dangerous as waste exposed to rain and sun becomes, it is not to be compared with the poison gases and fermentation of obstructed, leaky, unflushed sewers. They are an abomination upon (or under) the face of the earth, and their construction more culpable than the importation of a case of Asiatic cholera. A sewer of reasonable size could be flushed with the town's present facilities if it had a continuous fall, otherwise it would necessarily be so small as to cause its continual obstruction. Should the council order its construction, after finding it practicable, and not compel every property holder in reach of it to make proper connection with it, then it would be simply a convenience to a few at public expense and the people at large still exposed to the same old danger.

Mistakes are often made in matters of public improvement from failure of consideration from every possible point of view and those mistakes charitably overlooked sometimes, but in movements that pertain to health and life thoughtlessness amounts morally to crime. May the same wisdom that supplied the town with an abundant flow of water in mountain purity, prevail when it comes to ridding it of its impurities.

SPECIMEN CASES.

S. H. Clifford, New Cassel, Wis., was troubled with Neuralgia and Rheumatism, his stomach was disordered, his liver was affected to an alarming degree, appetite fell away, and he was terribly reduced in flesh and strength. Three bottles of Electric Bitters cured him.

Edward Shepherd, Harrisburg, Ill., had a running sore on his leg of eight years' standing. Used three bottles of Electric Bitters and seven boxes of Arnica Salve, and his leg is sound and well. John Spenser, Catawba, O., had five large fever sores on his leg, doctors said he was incurable. One bottle of Electric Bitters and one box Bucklen's Arnica Salve cured him entirely. Sold by A. F. Hargrave, Druggist.

WEATHER-CROP BULLETIN

CENTRAL OFFICE, LYNCHBURG, VA., April 4, 1893.

During the past seven days the temperature has averaged slightly above the normal for the season, but was lower during the first three days, with heavy frosts on the 20th and 30th of March, followed by warm days and nights. Slight damage is reported to the fruit crops, other than apples, and to garden truck in Surry county; elsewhere little or no damage has been reported. There has been above the normal amount of sunshine during the week, and generally no rain had occurred up to noon of Monday; in the vicinity of Lynchburg, local thunder storms occurred and about three-fourths of an inch of rainfall occurred which will prove very beneficial to vegetation and will improve the condition of the land for farm and garden work. The continued dry weather throughout the State has generally enabled farmers to rapidly push forward their fallowing, so that in many sections the greater portion of that work has been done. In the vicinity of Staunton the farmers are done sowing oats and plowing for corn, and in Rockingham, Greene, Prince William, and generally throughout the central sections the oat crop is generally well advanced as to seeding, and good progress is being made in other farm work. Plant beds need rain and warm weather to bring them out; in Greene county it is said that very few will raise tobacco. Early peas are reported as up and doing well in Prince George and Northampton counties. Potatoes are being planted in the central, north central and eastern counties. In the vicinity of Lynchburg peach trees are in bloom, trees are putting forth leaves, and pastures are becoming green.

Good warm rains are now needed throughout the State, as the ground is becoming almost too dry almost for growing vegetation. But the general conditions this morning do not favor any extensive or general rains inside of the next day or two.

J. N. RYKER,

FIRE AT RICHLANDS.

Among the unusual number of fires of the latter part of last week, reported from all over the country, Richlands had one in the western part of the town in which some four or five cottages were destroyed. It originated in the house of John M. Yost. Being away from the business part of the town the loss was not great.

SOMETIMES.

Sometimes we feel that thoughts are not worth thinking.

Sometimes the laurels are not worth the weeding.

Sometimes it seems that wine is not worth drinking.

Sometimes that air is scarcely worth the breathing.

Sometimes no friend seems worthy to be trusted.

Sometimes on pessimism deep we border.

Sometimes with life we're very much disgusted.

Sometimes our liver's badly out of order.
